The program assists projects that support soil conservation, improve water quality, and enhance natural heritage features. Ms. Sharp noted that confidential site visits to provide technical advice are free to landowners, and she asked Board member to share information about the program, noting that staff would be pleased to provide presentations to community groups. Manager, Finance, Katherine Toffan, provided the Board with an update regarding LSRCA's Second Quarter 2018 Financial Report, noting that in keeping with the approved 2018 budget, reporting is based on the new harmonized services areas. She noted that finances are on track through the second quarter, with a small deficit of $29K and that items affecting the overall second quarter position include legal fees that are trending over budget, offset by higher than expected revenue. Other highlights include Environmental Compliance Approvals are getting signed, investment income is higher due to the new strategy recently approved by the Board, and a cost savings has resulted from the implementation of electronic funds transfer (EFT), which is eliminating cheque printing.

York Regional Council Highlights September 20, 2018

York Region continues to advocate for better transit fare integration

York Regional Council passed a resolution to seek a commitment from Metrolinx to finalize a Greater Toronto and Hamilton Area (GTHA) fare integration solution by 2019. An integrated fare solution would require standardization of fare policies, discounts, fares and rules regarding transfers.

York Region will also continue to work with York University on a temporary solution to the cross-boundary travel issue for students, such as a Universal Pass or U-Pass.

Deciding the locations of future landfill sites

York Regional Council received a presentation from the Town of Ingersoll, Mayor Ted Comiskey requesting the province formally grant municipalities the authority to approve or reject landfill projects in their communities.

Mayor Comiskey's presentation will be shared with the nine local cities and towns and has been referred to York Region staff for a further report back to York Regional Council.

2017 waste diversion exceeds Official Plan goal of 90 per cent diversion from landfill

The Regional Municipality of York has achieved 93 per cent diversion from landfill based on the release of the 2017 Solid Waste Diversion report. This includes all tonnes from local city and town curbside collection programs, waste depot diversion programs and tonnes managed through energy-from-waste.

2017 achievements include collection of over:

- 85,298 tonnes of blue box recyclables
- 97,877 tonnes of organics
- 39,477 tonnes of yard waste
- 1,256 tonnes of household hazardous waste
- 1,344 tonnes of waste electronics

Since 2012, York Region and our local cities and towns have ranked first in urban municipal diversion. York Region is committed to the four R's of recycling, reducing, reusing and recovering energy from waste. Energy-from-waste captures the energy produced from waste after recycling efforts have taken place. In addition, the process lowers greenhouse gas emissions, recovers metals and reduces the volume of waste going to landfill.

Moving Canada towards zero plastic waste

York Regional Council received an update on the collective effort to move Canada towards zero plastic waste. All levels of government are working to zero plastic waste by reducing single use plastics such as straws, coffee cups and shopping bags, as well as change how plastic waste is produced and managed.

The Government of Canada launched public consultations to assist with a federal-provincial-territorial approach to keep plastic out of landfills and the environment. Policies and regulations from all levels of government can further reduce plastic waste by making manufacturers responsible for creating less plastic and using reusable or recyclable packaging.

York Region was one of the first municipalities to establish reuse and reduction targets with the SM4RT Living Plan. The SM4RT Living Plan promotes waste reduction with a variety of programs such as litter-less lunch programs, waste reduction resources and workshops and education through outreach events and social media.

Promoting health, well-being and safety for York Region's seniors

York Regional Council received an update on the Region's 2017 Long-Term Care Performance Report. The Regional Municipality of York remains committed to creating safe, inclusive and accessible communities for all residents.

The Region funds two Long-Term Care Homes and provides care for approximately 232 residents. The 2017 Satisfaction Survey shows resident and family satisfaction levels remain high.

Highlights of the report include:

- 100 per cent of respondents agree they would recommend the homes to others
- Both homes achieved three-year accreditation in 2017
- In 2017, the homes were inspected five times by the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care (MOHLTC) with an average of nine non-compliance findings per inspection, most of which were for minor issues like keeping assistive devices in good state of repair and updating residents' plans of care

Both Homes have performed better than the provincial and Central Local Health Integration Network average for three of the indicators, being the use of anti-psychotics, the use of restraints and improved physical functioning.

Staff are committed to focusing on quality improvement initiatives that further enhance the effectiveness of the delivery of care and services to residents of the homes.

Together with regulatory agencies, York Region remains vigilant in monitoring for tree pests and diseases and work with partners to reduce the impact of hazardous plants such as wild parsnip and giant hogweed along Regional roads.

York Region also continues to work with local cities and towns, other levels of government and non-profit organizations to combat the threats posed by these invasive species.

York Region and York Regional Police Services Agreement Amendment

York Regional Council is requesting an amendment to the Joint Services Agreement. The amendment includes new authorities that would better equip York Region Transit Special Constables to serve travellers and remain consistent with expected level of services across the Greater Toronto Area, such as Metrolinx and TTC.

The proposed amendment would provide specifically trained YRT Special Constables with the ability to act in situations involving public safety under the Trespass to Property Act, the Mental Health Act and the Liquor Licences Act.

Council requests Buttonville Airport control tower remain open

In response to the planned closure of the air traffic control tower at Buttonville Airport, The Regional Municipality of York and York Regional Council voted unanimously to request its continued presence at one of Ontario's busiest airports. Council is advising The Honourable Marc Garneau, MP, Minister of Transport, to share the Region's stance on the closure with Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and local MPs and MPPs.

The air traffic control tower at Buttonville Airport in the City of Markham is set to close on January 3, 2019 due to outdated information that showed a decline in operations and an impending full closure of the airport. With the airport now planned to remain open for at least five additional years, air traffic has increased. The safety of York Region's residents would be at risk if the air traffic control tower shuts down due to lack of planning and communication both in the air and on the ground.

Dr. Alanna Fitzgerald-Husek and Dr. Fareen Karachiwalla appointed as Associate Medical Officers of Health

York Regional Council appointed Dr. Alanna Fitzgerald-Husek and Dr. Fareen Karachiwalla as Associate Medical Officers of Health (AMOH) for The Regional Municipality of York, effective November 15, 2018.

After specializing in public health and preventive medicine, Dr. Alanna Fitzgerald-Husek worked for over a year at Public Health Ontario and has co-authored various reports on emerging diseases and outbreaks.

Dr. Karachiwalla has worked as a family physician in various settings. Most recently she was an Associate Medical Officer of Health at the Kingston Frontenac Lennox and Addington Public Health Unit.

Under the Health Protection and Promotion Act, the AMOH will increase the Region's capacity to effectively respond to emerging diseases, outbreaks, infection control lapses and provide direction in the management of infections diseases.

York Region receives an A for budget reporting

Milestone Date for start of York University Markham Centre Campus construction extended

York Regional Council has approved an extension to the milestone date for the start of York University Markham Centre Campus construction to December 31, 2019.

In September 2014, Council approved a memo of understanding with York University, providing $25 million in financial support for a new campus with start of construction by December 31, 2018.

It is the intent of York University to try and proceed with the Markham campus with the support of York Region, the City of Markham and Seneca College, despite the current loss of provincial funding. This extension will allow York University to retain eligibility for the Region's funding as they work towards replacing the provincial funding share.

York Region is committed to attracting and retaining talent that drives economic growth.

York Region continues to be attractive for business growth

York Region was bidding on being home to Amazon's second worldwide headquarters. Amazon announced on Tuesday, November 12, New York and Northern Virginia as the selected cities.

The Regional Municipality of York is incredibly proud to have two York Region locations – one in the City of Markham and one in the City of Vaughan – shortlisted from the initial 238 proposals.

There were many contributing factors to our success and that begins with the fact York Region has one of the highest concentrations of Information and Communications Technology (ICT) companies, plus annual employment numbers that continue to exceed national and provincial averages.

York Region remains committed to take action on climate change

York Regional Council reaffirmed its commitment and municipal perspective on climate change in light of the provincial cancellation of the Cap and Trade Act, 2018.

York Region has a significant stake in addressing climate change given the Region's role in delivering services directly to residents. The Region is committed to work with the province and supports the development of provincial climate change policies through a municipal advisory group that can provide practical solutions.

Recommendations for a policy framework include:

- Identify long-term emission reduction targets
- Commit to annual reporting of results in the Climate Change Action Plan
- Support and build municipal efforts to mitigate climate change
- Explore ways to support innovative technology
- Assess Ontario's key vulnerabilities, provide future climate information and encourage resiliency
- Continue engagement on both the developments and monitoring of the plan

York Regional Council remains committed to address the impacts of climate change through strategic documents including Vision 2051, Regional Official Plan and the Corporate Energy Conservation Demand Management Plan.

York Region requests expansion of waste diversion programs

York Regional Council is requesting the province take action to reduce the demand for new landfill capacity by expanding mandatory waste diversion programs.

Despite recent gains in municipal residential waste diversion, Ontario continues to rely heavily on landfills for its waste diversion needs.

Since 2012, York Region and our local cities and towns have ranked first in urban municipal diversion. York Region continues to work with municipal partners to provide sustainable long-term waste management programs that maximize diversion from landfill. In 2017, York Region achieved 93 per cent diversion from landfill, exceeding its Official Plan goal of 90 per cent.

Increased waste diversion capacity may be unlocked throughout the province with new funding opportunities and streamlined approvals for waste processing facilities.

York Region leverages World Toilet Day to remind residents what to flush
